

Galatians 3:15-18

New Century Version

♩ = 98

Jason Silver

Brothers and sisters, let us think in human terms:⁷

Even an agreement made between two persons is firm. After that agreement is accepted by both, no-body can stop it, or add anything to it.

God promised Abraham and his descendant.

God did not say, "and to, to your descendants." That would mean many people. But God said, only one person: "to your descendant."

That person is Christ. This is what I mean:⁷ God had an agreement with Abraham; promised to keep it. The law, which came four hundred and thir-ty years later, cannot change that agreement and so destroy God's promise to A-braham. If the law could give us Abraham's blessing, then the promise would not be necessary. But that is not possible, because God freely gave his blessings to Abraham through the promise he had made.
